Former Vulcan Resident Dies At Stettler

A Vulcan native son, George Edward Hill of Stettler died in hospital at Stettler on Wednesday, June 7, 1967, following a brief illness. He was 51 years of age.

Born at Vulcan November 1, 1916, the son of John and Ida Hill, he attended the Vulcan public and high schools. He enlisted in the Canadian Army following the outbreak of World War Two and served for four years with the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps. He was united in marriage to Bernice Anne Fenelon at Sioux Outlook, Ont., in November, 1946, and was employed in Calgary after the war. For the past 10 years he was employed with McTaggart Motors at Stettler.

He was a member of the Board of Session of the Stettler United Church and had been an active member of the Royal Canadian Legion. He was active in the Stettler curling and golfing clubs.

Besides his wife he is survived by one son, Lyle and one daughter Margaret and his mother Mrs. Ida Hill, all of Stettler.

Services were conducted at the Stettler United Church on Saturday, June 10, with Rev. John D. Evans officiating, and memorial services were conducted by members of the Stettler Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. Interment was in the Lake View cemetery at Stettler.

Revise Admittance Policy For School Beginners

Acting on a report by Superintendent E. F. Bardock, the County of Vulcan School Committee has revised the policy in respect to the admission of children to the first grade of school in the County of Vulcan.

In his report, Mr. Bardock stated the problem of determining the best time to admit children to the first grade of school was a controversial one. The policy as set forth by the school committee corresponds to a great degree with the most common practice presently in effect in divisions and counties in Alberta and, while recognizing the value of scientific measurement for purposes of admission and subsequent grouping, it also concedes the right of parents to disagree.

The school committee extended the policy of admission to provide for the entrance of five and one-half-year-olds who appear ready and mature enough to enter school, so as to remove the need for possible acceleration programs should these children be required to wait over an additional year. In an effort to serve the best interests of all concerned, the regulations governing admission have been made flexible and emphasize the need for consultation between parents and the school.

The policy is revised as follows:

1. All children six years of age before Jan. 31 of the following year may be considered for admission to school in September.

2. All prospective beginners shall be tested during the month of June.

3. A standard beginner's test will be used throughout the county and a minimum mental age score should be obtained for recommendation for admission.

4. For children whose sixth birthday falls before Jan. 1, parents or guardians concerned shall be allowed to make the final decision regarding admission.

5. For children whose sixth birthday falls in January, the obtaining of the minimum mental age score will be mandatory. In addition, there should be no question of their physical and social readiness.

6. Letters recommending admission and non-admittance will be sent to the parents concerned and they will be contacted personally by the principal or vice-principal.

Apartment Need Seen

Chamber To Tackle Housing Problem

Somewhere in this country there is money available for financing an apartment block in Vulcan and the Vulcan District Chamber of Commerce is going to try to track it down. This was a subject under discussion at the May supper meeting of the business organization held at the Vulcan Hotel Banquet Room.

Housing at Vulcan has been an oft-repeated item on the minutes of the Chamber and its lack and subsequent ill to the progress of the town were further emphasized by Pat Roe. He led off with the observation that one of the major problems in maintaining teaching staff locally is housing, despite the acquisition of duplexes by the county. Newcomers to the town's business community find the same problem. On another side, he felt there were older residents living in their own homes who would welcome an opportunity to take apartment space and be free of maintenance problems. Still others in the same category, left town to go to the cities and the freedom of apartment living.

It was felt there are those with money to invest locally either individually or as a group in an apartment block but past experience by these would-be investors has led them to the conclusion that their money is welcome in city investment but discouraged in the country.

In an effort to clarify the local position on availability of financing for such a project, a request is being made to CMHC in Calgary to have an official come to Vulcan and speak to the Chamber as soon as possible.

An offer by the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede for the Chamber to sponsor a Vulcan float in the parade was turned down for this year.

A motion was approved to have the Chamber again donate the Reserve Grand Champion trophy at the annual Achievement Day and Sale of the Vulcan District 4-H Clubs to be held this Saturday.

With several hundred more County Centennial coins still on hand from the Confederation Caravan Day, it was decided to distribute them among stores for the summer months.

A request that the Chamber advertise through the proper channels to have a shoemaker set up a business in town was made. Vulcan has been without this service for some years and advertising of this nature last year failed to produce results. President Allan McAskill was to interview officials of the Department of Manpower and Immigration regarding this matter.

Three Injured In Car Accident Sunday Night

Three young people were injured, none seriously, in an accident that occurred at 9:20 p.m. Sunday, June 11, on a district road one mile north and a half mile west of Champion.

A car, driven by Jimmy Rhodes of Champion, with Jacquie Deans of Champion as passengers, ran into the left wheel of a disced being towed by a half-ton truck driven by Gordon Petronech of Champion.

Although the car was badly damaged, to the extent of $1500 to $2000, the car driver escaped with a cut lip, Jacquie Deans suffered from concussion and a fractured nose and Grant Wolfe received bruises. They were taken to the Vulcan hospital for treatment. The truck driver was not injured.

The Vulcan Detachment of the RCMP is investigating the mishap.

Bursaries Now Available For Vocational Training

County Winners In Essay Contest Are Announced

Judith Lomas, Grade 6 student at Lomond, and John Bach, Grade 8 student at Champion, were the County of Vulcan Schools winners in the 1967 Alberta Safety Council essay contest.

E. F. Bardock, superintendent of schools, visited the Lomond and Champion schools and presented the winners with engraved plaques for the schools and pins for each girl, signifying their wins.

In this annual contest, the two best essays submitted in each of the eligible grades are sent to Edmonton for provincial judging. The judges then select the best essay submitted from each grade from the four essays submitted from grades 5 and 6 and the four from grades 7 and 8.

The preliminary winners were: Debra Walker, Lomond, grade 5; Laurie Godkin, Milo, grade 5; Judith Lomas, Lomond, grade 6; Vicky Chambers, Lomond, grade 6; Donna Eliuk, Brant, grade 7; Wendy Oberholtzer, Arrowwood, grade 7; Joan Bach, Champion, grade 8; Wendy Hunter, Brant, grade 8.

The County of Vulcan School Committee has endorsed a recommendation of the School Superintendent to sponsor the training of vocational teachers under the Vocational Bursary Program which is financially supported by the federal and provincial governments.

Under the program, married candidates can receive a maximum bursary of $5,000 and single candidates can receive up to $3,000. The County would be reimbursed for 90% of this amount by the two senior governments.

It is expected that this program will alleviate the chronic shortage of vocational teachers that the County has faced for some years.

Candidates must possess senior matriculation, a certificate of proficiency in their trade and have had not less than three years of service in their field of work. Applications are being received by the Superintendent of Schools.

Seeding Pretty Well Completed

So far this week the weather has remained cloudy but fairly dry, with only a few scattered light showers over the district.

Seeding is pretty well completed and hot weather is needed to advance growth, as most crops are two to three weeks late.

Brownies Enjoy Pack Holiday At Arrowwood

On Friday, June 9, eight Brownies from Arrowwood and seven from Vulcan arrived with their leaders at the Arrowwood Community Hall for a weekend of fun. Brown Owl Eleanor Oberholtzer conducted the pack holiday, the first for the Bow & Arrow Division. She was assisted by Brown Owl Donna Graham of Vulcan and Tawny Owl Ruth Williams of Arrowwood.

After the Brownies got their bedrolls, etc., settled in the club room of the hall, everyone traveled to a coulee on the East Arrowwood creek for the afternoon and supper — then back to the hall for games and cocoa before bedtime.

Saturday they were "rained-in" and spent the day with handicraft projects, etc.

Mrs. Racille Ellis, camp adviser for the division inspected the Pack Holiday. Mrs. Oberholtzer was being tested for her Pack Holiday License, which will enable her to conduct these Pack Holiday weekends and train other Brownie leaders to do the same. Mrs. Ella Hayes, commissioner for the division, also visited the camp.

On Sunday the Brownies and leaders attended the Church of the Brethren and were warmly welcomed by Rev. Glenn Harmon.

Dinner was served at the hall and by 2:00 o'clock the parents had collected all the Brownies. Despite the rainy weather the weekend was quite a success.

Golf Challenge Trophy In New Hands

Dan Watson and Ken Reid are the new holders of the Foothills Challenge Trophy as they won over Ray Wellman and Glen Gorbous on Sunday by a 2-up margin. Medal scores for the 18-hole contest were Watson and Reid, both with 74, Wellman 72 and Gorbous with 78.

The McAskill Four-ball Trophy was up for grabs at the Vulcan Club on Sunday and after 20 partners had turned their scores in and had their handicaps deducted the winners were Doug Maisey and Dave Will with a net 123 to win by quite a margin.

The Vulcan Golf Club is still planning for Saturday evening, with mixed golfing each Saturday, weather permitting.

There were a few Vulcan winners at Nanton's Golf Tournament on Sunday, June 4. Glen Gorbous was the only man winning an event prize as he won second in the second event. Dan Watson won top honors in the popular horse race.

For the ladies it was June Wellman winning the first event with Fay Gorbous second, and Veda Boutland second in the second event.

After two weeks of league play on Tuesday evenings the standing was as follows:

DR. LAWRENCE E. KINDT, M.P.

The organization sponsoring Dr. Lawrence E. Kindt, M.P., is pleased to announce that he has consented to stand for the nomination for the new Constituency of Crowfoot, at the convention to be held early in November at Brooks, Alberta. A short biographical statement of Dr. Kindt, who has been the Member of Parliament for the Federal Constituency of Macleod for the past nine years and operates his own farm in Crowfoot Riding, would seem appropriate.

His early youth was spent on the farm, homesteaded by his father in the Nanton district in 1904. He organized one of the first Junior U.F.A. Locals in his neighborhood, and later was elected the first Provincial President of that organization. In this capacity, he travelled the province organizing Locals and speaking at farm meetings. As a result of this work, many farm people in Crowfoot Riding remember him from those days.

Pursuing his studies, Lawrence attended the Claresholm School of Agriculture where he received his Diploma in Practical Agriculture before continuing studies at the University of Alberta where he earned his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture. Realizing the magnitude of the economic problems of industry and agriculture, he took his M.A. post-graduate degree in Agricultural Economics at the University of Minnesota — considered one of the best universities for advanced study on the continent. There he also delved into the field of Business Administration.

Putting his studies to practice, Lawrence Kindt went to work with the Agricultural Economics Branch at Ottawa. He was authorized to make a study of the Sheep Ranching Industry of Western Canada and recommended the establishment of the Dominion Experimental Station at Manyberries to engage in range management studies. While with the Economics Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, he also did research work on the Cattle Ranching Industry of Western Canada, and helped to write the Acts that set up the Canada Wheat Board and Debtors Creditors Arrangement Act which protected many farmers from being run through the wringer.

Realizing the importance and complexity facing Canadian Agriculture in its association with industry in the Canadian economy, Lawrence Kindt took additional graduate work in Economics in Washington, D.C. where he specialized in General Economics and Natural Resources for his Ph.D. degree. Following these studies, he was asked by his instructors to take charge of the planning work under the Agricultural Adjustment Act in the 13 Western States. He worked towards providing farmers with a satisfactory income and directed the planning of the Farm and Ranch programs under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and it was these programs that put the farmers of the Western United States on their feet.

His work with industry and agriculture on the government level as well as on the practical farm level, gives him a knowledge and ability that has been and can continue to be of great service to the residents of Crowfoot Riding. His understanding of the position and problems of agriculture in Canada's overall economy assure Crowfoot a strong voice in government discussion.

Further, he was the Economic Consultant who coordinated the preparation of the Brief for the Province of Alberta for the Gordon Royal Commission. Dr. Kindt and those who worked with him recommended the creation of a National Energy Board, which has since been created. He has worked with the government at Edmonton on many occasions, and the results have been of benefit to the people of Alberta.

All residents of Crowfoot Constituency are urged to consider and support a candidate such as Dr. Lawrence E. Kindt, who can handle their problems with the benefit of mature, qualified judgement and experience.

FESTIVE AIR TO PREVAIL AT GARDINER DAM CEREMONY

Plans for the official dedication of Gardiner Dam, main structure of the South Saskatchewan River Project, are rapidly being finalized in preparation for July 21st. It is anticipated that approximately 20,000 people will converge on the site midway between the towns of Outlook and Elbow on that day.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson will dedicate the $116,000,000 structure which was begun in 1958, and is now virtually completed. As Canada reflects with humble pride on its accomplishments over the past 100 years, it is fitting that this largest earthfill dam in Canada should be finished and officially recognized during centennial year.

In keeping with this significant event, a full program of activities has been arranged. These will include a fly past by the RCAF, and the thrilling performance of the internationally renowned Red Knight. A fireworks display will mark the end of dedication ceremonies, but it won't mean the end of entertainment for visitors. An outstanding program of variety entertainment with a distinct Saskatchewan flavor will highlight festivities during the evening.

For early arrivals on the morning of July 21st, band music will be provided, and will continue throughout the day. And when the celebration is over, those attending will not go home empty-handed. Souvenirs will go with them to help them remember the day that the prairies' greatest water development structure was dedicated.

It is hoped the occasion will be treated as a family day, and that picnic lunches will be in vogue. Picnic grounds are available at the site. For those not bringing lunches, various concessions will be in operation.

NEW HILLMAN MINX. Safe driving aids, in full measure, have been built into a car that was announced in Britain recently—the new Hillman Minx.

Apart from a high standard of braking, road holding and steering—and a shock-absorbing body construction—it has anti-burst door locks, child-proof safety catches, and even special ledges on the wheel-rims to keep the tyre in place in the event of a burst. Many other safety features have been included as a direct result of a research programme into motorists' protection by the builders.

Family Travel Is Theme

County of Vulcan Schools winners in the annual farm safety essay contest sponsored by the Alberta Safety Council were Judith Lomas of Lomond, in the Grades 7-8 class, and Joan Bach of Champion in the Grades 5-6 class.

Safety topic for the competition this year was "Family Travel in Centennial Year" and winning essays were selected from 109 school division finalists chosen from 61,465 contest entries. Both rural and urban schools took part in the contest.

FAMILY TRAVEL IN CENTENNIAL YEAR

(By Judith Lomas, Grade 8, Lomond)

Since the Marshall family felt that they could not afford to go to "Expo" in Centennial year, they all agreed to spend their vacation at Banff National Park, Alberta. What bustle and excitement! Mr. Marshall had a complete check-up on the car. The Marshall family packed and excited, crammed boxes and suitcases inside and on top of the car.

They had been on the road for about an hour when they started nearing the town of High River. Jane, a six-year-old, and Sammy, five, were hot and tired. Frustrated at the close confinement, they started fighting. Throwing pillows and everything in sight, their anger mounted. Pop! A pillow had fallen in front of Mr. Marshall's eyes which caused him to swerve. Crash! Bang! He had hit a passing car!

The estimated damage to the cars was three to four hundred dollars each. Mrs. Marshall had a sprained ankle. Janet had a bump on her head but Sammy escaped without a scratch. No injuries in the other car! Just frightened and angry. After being questioned by the police, everyone was taken to the High River Hospital for examination and treatment.

The children were at fault. But the mother and father should have packed a quiet game for them such as "Etch A Sketch" or taught them how to play "I Spy", "Find the Button" and other such games as these. Small children need something to do while riding for a distance. Short diversions of any kind keep them out of trouble. Mr. Marshall and his family could have stopped along the way for a walk or some food. Do this: It may be lives that are lost next time.

FAMILY TRAVEL IN CENTENNIAL YEAR

(By Joan Bach, Grade 8, Champion)

Centennial—The word exalts the spirits of true-blooded Canadians but the forecast of death and destruction wrought by carelessness drops only too few of us back to our senses.

Of course, when we do our traveling this year none of these direful predictions will plague us. Oh! no—not us! It always happens to the "other guy."

Let us take a look at a family of "other guys" who are on an excursion across Canada and observe the birth of those seemingly innocent errors.

The Stampede Parade had been spectacular in the eyes of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly, but oh! — the Midway — Shannon and Jerald would be dizzy for days. Tired and weary the family sped to the Rocky Mountains to camp for the night. Upon their arrival, all of them being famished, they persuaded Shannon, the "outdoors girl" of the family, to build a fire in order that some food could be prepared. Because Shannon had dug the trench where there were a few small tree roots, she wanted to line it well with flat stones but the sinking sun and pangs from her hungry stomach induced her to ignore this safety precaution. After a hearty meal, a refreshing sleep, a cold breakfast, and a few shovels of sand hastily thrown on the trench the family set out for Vancouver.

A week later, while lazing on a beach, Shannon and her mother heard over the radio that an underground fire, which had started in the area of their old campsite, had spread undetected for approximately a week to burst into flame and change the picturesque forest into a blazing inferno. Men, women and children suffocated in the thick deadly smoke. Thousands of acres of trees and families of animals, gone forever, because of one careless and thoughtless act. The words penetrated deeply. Of course, Shannon knew that she could not be responsible for the fire. Still her conscience would have been much quieter had she taken that little extra precaution.

Her crime — one small precaution neglected because of hunger and lassitude. Even though the crime was small, it was one we would never commit. Of course not, it always happens to the "other guy". Perhaps this year we should take all those extra little safety measures while travelling just in case . . .

Our Alberta Heritage

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT ALBERTA?

What's different about Alberta? Just about everything, as any proud Albertan will tell you! Where else do you find the unique Chinook, that caressing breeze that coaxes a spring-like balminess out of an ice-locked winter day?

Or such a variety of terrain — magnificent mountains, sweeping plains, broad rivers, roaring waterfalls and limpid gem-like lakes. And overhead there's the clean blue sky that gives Albertans more annual sunshine than any point in Canada.

We're proud too that visitors take home an impression of "immediacy," the dynamic air of "getting things done" that stems from the enterprise and leadership that are our heritage here in Canada's fastest-moving province — OUR ALBERTA. Courtesy Calgary Power Ltd.

BROMOXNYL-TREATED BARLEY YIELDS HIGHER THAN DICAMBA-TREATED BARLEY IN BUCKWHEAT WEED-KILLING TEST

Bromoxnyl—a herbicide which kills quickly by contact with leaves—reduced the amount of water used by buckwheat in a barley plot by 50 per cent compared to the amount of water used by buckwheat sprayed by dicamba in a recently-completed experiment at Lacombe research station.

Henry Friesen, the plant scientist who conducted the greenhouse experiment, said that the weight of harvested barley kernels from the bromoxnyl-treated plot was significantly heavier than the kernel harvest from the dicamba-treated plot. The bromoxnyl-treated kernels weighed 14.3 grams at harvest while the dicamba-treated kernels weighed 8.8 grams.

The Lacombe experiment was conducted in 1966 to see if bromoxnyl which kills buckwheat in two to three days was more effective in boosting barley yields than dicamba which kills buckwheat in 10 to 12 days.

It is believed the killing action in bromoxnyl involves destroying cells in leaves which are sprayed directly. A good coverage of this herbicide is needed for a good weed kill, since the herbicide does not move freely in the plant. Dicamba, however, is a systematic herbicide. It upsets the enzyme structure of the weed, interfering with normal growth. Both herbicides kill tartary buckwheat, but dicamba takes about eight days or so longer.

Mr. Friesen says studies show that reduced tillering occurs in barley plants due to weed competition during the early stages of plant growth. Reduced tillering, he says, can result when weeds are not controlled.

Little water was transpired from bromoxnyl-treated buckwheat after two days in the Lacombe experiment, Mr. Friesen says. Only six grams per day of water were transpired by the buckwheat in the plot after two days. However, water lost by the dicamba-treated buckwheat was 115 grams per day. Water used by buckwheat in the untreated barley plot amounted to 226 grams per day.

This difference in moisture loss between the buckwheat treated by bromoxnyl and the dicamba was due to the fact that the dicamba-treated buckwheat took eight days longer to die. During this time, it transpired 109 grams of water more per day.

When the bromoxnyl-treated barley grown in the greenhouse at Lacombe reached maturity, it had a heavier weight of plant material and more heads per plant than the dicamba-treated barley.

Buckwheat infested barley had six heads per plant. Bromoxnyl treated barley had 13 heads per plant. Dicamba-treated barley had nine heads per plant and buckwheat-free barley which had not had to be treated had twelve heads per plant.

The buckwheat-free barley control had a total plant weight of 16.3 grams per plot at harvest. The buckwheat-infested barley yielded 5.6 grams. The bromoxnyl-treated barley had 14.3 grams of plant per plot. And the dicamba-treated barley had 8.8 grams per plot.

The bromoxnyl-treated barley yielded three times the weight of plant material than barley which had not been treated at all. Total plant weights of barley treated by bromoxnyl were as good as barley completely free of buckwheat in the greenhouse tests.

In a one-year field test comparing bromoxnyl, dicamba and untreated barley, the trend noted in the 1966 greenhouse tests seemed to be holding up.

RHUBARB — A TASTY SPRINGTIME TREAT

Rhubarb was brought to Canada from Europe by our early settlers and has been the homemaker's standby through the years for tangy, colourful desserts, sauces, pies and puddings.

Rhubarb is at its tasty and colourful best in May and June and probably many of you have an excess on hand. Freshly picked stalks are firm and crisp; the small or medium stalks are most tender. Spring rhubarb does not need peeling. The skin provides colour and helps to hold the pieces in shape. Simply cut off the stem ends and discard them. Wash the rhubarb thoroughly and cut it in the lengths desired for cooking. If you are not going to use it immediately, place in a plastic bag and keep in the refrigerator. Freezing and canning are quite successful for long term storage.

When freezing rhubarb choose young, tender, firm stalks and prepare immediately. Cut into one inch pieces or in uniform stalks of 8-10 inches in length. Color and flavor are retained more satisfactorily if raw rhubarb is blanched one minute and cooled quickly. Pack the fruit in air-tight moisture vapour proof containers. Quick freeze immediately.

Rhubarb can be packed in various forms. If cut in 1-inch pieces it can be packed without sugar, or use 2 cups sugar to 11 cups of fruit or pack in 1 to 1 syrup.

Canning rhubarb is easy too! Wash, cut in 1/2 inch pieces, pack and cover with boiling syrup. Leave headspace. Process pints 10 minutes and quarts 15 minutes or five minutes in a pressure cooker.

Roast pork with rhubarb sauce is tart and saucy springtime treat.

RHUBARB SAUCE

6 cups diagonally sliced rhubarb,
1-inch lengths (about 2 lbs.)
1 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups rhubarb-wine syrup
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water.
1/4 cup sweet white wine.

Trim and wash rhubarb, cut diagonally into 1-inch lengths. Place in a bowl, add sugar, and mix well. Spoon into a 2-quart casserole, add orange juice, wine, Cover casserole and bake in 325 degree oven, 35 minutes or until rhubarb is just tender but still holds its shape. With a slotted spoon, carefully remove rhubarb pieces, allowing them to drain first, then place around roast pork on platter. Measure 1 1/2 cups syrup remaining in casserole, place in saucepan, bring to boil, stir in butter. Blend cornstarch with water and add. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened and clear. Serve with the rhubarb and roast pork.

What's
best beer in the house?

How do you make a choice here? Well, Lethbridge Lager is the bold, brawny brew; Lethbridge Pilsner the traditional beer...naturally aged in the good old-fashioned way. Both are quality brewed, so it's a matter of individual taste. As you can see, both the beers speak for themselves.

Trip To Brooks Planned By W.I.

The Reid Hill W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Earl Deal, Thursday, June 8th, for their regular meeting. Mrs. C. L. Kuykendall, president was in the chair and conducted the meeting assisted by secretary, Mrs. John French. The punctuality draw was won by Mrs. Jack Marshall.

Routine business matters were dealt with and were quite light. Later the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Marshall who gave two fine readings, which were much appreciated. She also conducted two contests which were won by Mrs. French, Mrs. Kuykendall, Mrs. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Fred Schuler. A most pleasant social period was enjoyed, followed by the serving of lunch by the hostess assisted by Mrs. French.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. French and the August meeting will see the members journeying to Brooks for a tour of the horticultural station and a picnic lunch will be served.
